OUR 67TH YEAR | SIKESTON SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI | FRIDAY, APRIL 15, 1977 | NUMBER 39

Carter launches new anti-inflation drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today launched a drive to bring the nation's inflation rate down to about four per cent by the end of 1979, and said that if Congress passed a permanent income tax cut as a substitute for his discarded $50 tax rebate, "I would veto it."

Carter said the permanent tax reduction Republicans pushed in opposing his rebate would be irresponsible and inflationary. He said he does not believe Congress will approve such a measure.

The President's inflationfighting program emphasized voluntary cooperation and shunned controls. To monitor it, Carter named a labor-management advisory team with AFLCIO President George Meany as one of its leaders. Meany has been sharply critical of the administration's economic course so far.

General Electric Chairman Reginald Jones will also join the team, Carter said.

The President said the pressure on prices has been mounting this year, with the consumer price index up at rates that would point to annual inflation of about 9 per cent. The harsh winter has been blamed for part of the increase, and administration officials estimate the rate for all of 1977 will be about 6 per cent.

The President said government, business and labor can "reasonably aim at reducing the rate of inflation by two percentage points by the end of 1979, while still vigorously pursuing our commitment to full employment.

"Our goal is to reduce the inflation rate by two per cent by the end of 1979, which is a very difficult task to undertake," Carter told a nationally broadcast news conference.

In announcing his long-awaited anti-inflation plan, Carter flatly ruled out any wage and prices controls.

He said it is evident that inflationary pressures have been intensifying all year, with the average level of price increases running at an annual rate of nine per cent.

The President said he will deal with that "difficult and pernicious problem" without sacrificing economic expansion or jobs, and without resorting to compulsion or coercion.

Carter said Meany and Jones would work with other business and labor leaders, as well as government officials, to develop economic objectives for the nation, including goals for jobs and inflation.

"Most importantly, this joint effort must be voluntary and cooperative and not be based on coercive or self-defeating controls," Carter said.

He said Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal will head government representatives who will work with the panel.

There were few features in the anti-inflation program that had not been previously disclosed by the President himself and or other administration spokesmen.

Carter also told the news conference that he hopes to meet with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in the United States later this year. "I would welcome a chance to meet with Secretary Brezhnev on a continuing basis, annually at least...." he said.

The President said he thinks the Soviet response to his initial strategic arms limitation proposals, which Moscow rejected, "has been predictable." He said he sees no reason "to change our proposals."

"I don't consider the SALT (strategic arms limitation) talks at this point to have reached an impasse," Carter said. He said there are continuing discussions between U.S. and Soviet representatives.

Carter also said that if Congress voted to substitute a permanent income tax cut for his discarded $50 rebate, "I would veto it" as inflationary and irresponsible. Carter said he doesn't think Congress will pass a tax cut.

Republicans in Congress have been pushing for a permanent tax cut as the alternative to the Carter rebate plan, which the President scrapped on Thursday.

In scrapping his $10 billion tax rebate plan Thursday, Carter may have done more to reassure business about the administration's commitment to fight inflation than anything that will be in today's program.

On Wall Street, which had been worried over the possible inflationary impact of the rebates, the stock market gained nearly 9 points in heavy trading Thursday.

Although Carter said last year he would ask for standby authority to impose wage and price controls, he and his advisers have said they no longer want this.

"There is nothing in this program that involves controls or coercion, either actual or standby in nature," Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal told reporters this week.

Sikeston boy seriously hurt

A Sikeston boy was listed in serious condition this morning at Baptist Hospital at Memphis after the bicycle he was riding was struck by a pickup truck here Thursday afternoon.

The boy is Marcus Yarber, 7, the son of Mrs. Leona Yarber, 1308 Osage St. The Sikeston Department of Public Safety reported that the boy was riding south on Petty Street, crossing Osage Street, when his bicycle was hit by a pickup truck traveling west on Osage Street at a high rate of speed. 5 men arrested; charges are pending

CHARLESTON -- Five men were arrested Thursday night and are being held in Mississippi County Jail pending filing of charges of possession of a controlled substance.

Police Chief Bob Ritchey said a van, owned and driven by Gallin Frye, 24, of Connecticut, was observed weaving on East Marshall Street about 11 p.m. Thursday by Detective Jim Sims and Sgt. Willis Cox. A flurry of activity in the rear of the van when it was stopped prompted the officers to check the other occupants.

Arrested on suspicion of possession of a controlled substance were: Frye, Tony Keith Vinson, 18, James Nelson Fiscus, 19, and Michael Edward Vinson, 17, of Charleston and James Bailey, 24, of East Prairie.

Ritchey said a quantity of a substance believed to be marijuana has been sent to the crime lab in Cape Girardeau for analysis.

Charges are expected to be filed today.

Thief hits Kellett Oil

Approximately $100 in cash and $100 in checks sometime Wednesday night was taken in a burglary of the Kellett Oil Co., 901 S. Main St., the Sikeston Public Safety Department said today.

Don Kellett, manager, showed officers a broken glass on a garage door at the southeast side of the building, where entry was gained. The thief had torn the lock off of a metal box where the checks and cash were stored.

Area licenses suspended, revoked

Eight licencees who sell beer and liquor in the area appeared before Robert G. Stewart, acting supervisor, division of liquor control on April 13, according to a report issue by district supervisor Jimmie C. Moore.

Of those at the hearings, six licenses were suspended, one dismissed and one revoked.

George Smith of Smith Package Store, Highway 61 and Route D, Lilbourn, was revoked for unlawful sale to a minor.

Among those receiving suspensions were Syble Brown, Brown Drive Inn, Hayti, 15 days for unlawful sale on Sunday; Eric V. Piel and Richard L. Wrather, Quality Package Store, 851 W. Malone, five days; unlawful sale to minor; Randel L. Redman, Redman's Tavern, Clarkton, four days for unlawful sale to minor; Allie Mae Nelson, Scott City Package Store, Scott City, six days for unlawful sale to minor; Glen Allen Helmes and Jerry W. Helmes, Helmes Quick Sack No. 2, Morehouse, seven days for unlawful sale to minor and by minor and Ken's Pizza Parlor, Inc., 1511 E. Malone, three days for unlawful sale by a minor.

Molly Edna Cameron of the Rendevous in Morehouse had charges of unlawful sale to a minor dismissed.

Burlison discusses Carter proposals

MOREHOUSE — Congressman Bill D. Burlison told Morehouse Kiwanians Thursday night, "I agree with some of the Carter election reform proposals while having some reservations with respect to some." The U.S. Congressman discussed the President's program at a regular meeting of the Morehouse Kiwanis Club.

The President's proposals include: (1) making it easier for citizens to register and vote, (2) providing for public financing of Congressional campaigns in a somewhat similar fashion to what is now done in presidential elections, (3) eliminating the electorial college and selecting the president by popular vote, (4) amendment of the Hatch Act to permit more active participation by federal employees in political campaigns.

Burlison said the proposal he favors most is that to eliminate the electoral college, a proposal for which he has been a leading advocate in the Congress for some years. He said he is the chief sponsor for the principal bill now pending on the House side with 60 co-sponsors.

He noted that the proposal passed in 1969 on the House side by a wide margin but was filibustered to death in the Senate. Burlison said House Judiciary Committee leaders had indicated to him that the House will not take action in this Congress until the Senate first does so. The representative said he had discussed the matter with chairman Birch Bayh of the Constitutional Amendments Subcommittee of Judiciary in the Senate and that Senator Bayh is hopeful of favorable Senate action in this Congress. Burlison testified before the Bayh committee earlier in the year.

Bridge falls with man on tractor

A Delta man was injured at about 8:55 a.m. Thursday when the tractor he was driving fell through the Diversion Channel Bridge, one mile south of Allenton on a county road the Highway patrol said today.

Lonnie Dean Mobley, 23, was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital at Cape Girardeau, where he was treated for minor injuries. His tractor was southbound on the bridge when it fell through.

A two-vehicle collision at 3:30 p.m. Thursday resulted in minor injuries to one of the drivers. The patrol said a pickup truck and a motorcycle were both southbound on Route T, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff when the accident occurred. The motorcycle was following the pickup truck and when the truck slowed for a left turn, the motorcycle struck it in the side.

The driver of the motorcycle, Michael Edward Woods, 21, of Poplar Bluff, was treated for minor injuries at Veterans Hospital in Poplar Bluff. The driver of the pickup truck, James William Green, 35, of Wappapello, was not injured.

Bloomfield to limit use of new fire truck to fires in city limits

BLOOMFIELD — Mayor M. E. "Bud" Bresee and two new council members were sworn in Thursday night and briefed by City Clerk Joe Lloyd. They heard the previous administration criticized by the returning council members.

Most of the complaints came from Alderman Sonny McRoy, who was also elected president of aldermen by the other members.

"One of the biggest complaints I've had in the past year is that we talk about something and then drop it," he said. "I hope we can talk and accomplish something other than just agree about it here. There are so many things we could have done if we would have done more than talk about them."

"I agree," Larry Lancaster, the other returning alderman, said.

One of McRoy's complaints was with policy in the water department which is under his jurisdiction.

"I don't want to dwell on the past," he said, "but in the past, we went into executive session rather than to have slander put in the paper. We do have problems which I feel should be public, should be in the open. We've had problems hashed and rehashed, we say we'll do it this way but nothing is done."

He told the new mayor and board members that when he and Lancaster first came on the board about a year ago there were some delinquent bills, but that it wasn't until the past month that service was cut off to delinquent customers.

He said it was decided not to hook up meters until bills are paid, but that two new meters have been hooked up without bills being paid.

He said he can't run business this way and wanted authorization from the mayor to continue the policy of having customers pay first and then hook up when city employes have the chance.

Bresee instructed McRoy to tell the water department to follow this policy.

McRoy and newly elected alderman Carl Neuder were appointed to the water and sewer committee.

Another complaint brought up by McRoy dealt with taking a city-owned fire truck outside the city limits to fight rural fires. He said he believes it should remain within the city limits.

"I know that they've taken our truck out every time. We always take the new one," he said, even though the rural district owns an older truck also kept at the fire station.

"There is no point in wearing out fire trucks out of town," McRoy continued, "the city comes first because it's our truck. There has been a lot of repairs on that truck and 90 per cent of the wear was on rural calls."

He said because of taking the truck outside city limits during last winter's cold spell a pump broke, which must now be fixed.

McRoy said "We do have a good fire department, they all ought to be commended," but he disagrees with the taking of the city-owned fire truck outside the city and the way the equipment is used and abused.

Bill Cowgur, assistant fire chief and former board member, who was not at the meeting Thursday night, disagrees.

He explained this morning that even though the new truck is owned by the city and the older truck by the rural fire district, in practice the same firemen serve in both capacities and in the past the city fire truck has been used outside the city and the rural truck inside the city.

The choice of what equipment to take has been left to the fire department and depended on what type of fire was being fought and what type of problem was expected to be encountered.

The pump froze, not while on a rural fire, but while sitting in an improperly heated fire house, he said, denying that the truck had been abused as McRoy claimed.

"There is no way you're going to wear out a fire truck by answering fires," he said.

McRoy claims that money received from the rural fire district does not go to the city and that using city equipment and supplies is a waste of taxpayers' money.

Cowgur said while there are two different accounts, each goes toward buying equipment for the fire department, which is used both inside and outside the city.

The board agreed Thursday night to no longer allow the newer truck to be taken outside the city limits.

"They could screw up the department,"

Sikeston man charged

BENTON — The Scott County Sheriff's Department reported that a Sikeston man was charged today with tampering with a motor vehicle in connection with an incident which occurred Monday.

Charged was Ivan Baker, 19. Glass was broken out of windows of a car owned by Mark Hendrickson of rural Chaffee, while it was parked on a rural road two miles south of Kelso.

The thief was apparently trying to get at a citizens band radio in the car.

A vehicle Baker was seen riding in had been seen by witnesses in the vicinity of Hendrickson's car at the time of the incident.

Firemen stop ammonia leak

DEXTER — Firemen stopped an anhydrous ammonia leak Thursday afternoon at Southeast Missouri Co-op on Highway 25 South.

Fire Chief Al Banken said today that it was no big problem and that firemen used self-contained breathing equipment to work through the fumes and turned off three to four valves, stopping the leak.

If it had been up town, it would have been a problem, Banken said. But as it was, nobody was hurt and no damage occurred.

JAPANESE AIR GRIEVANCES

Japan is being increasingly criticized for its aggressiveness in international trade.

The Japanese have captured 90 per cent of the imported steel market in South America and the Middle East and almost as much in the United States. Nine out of every 10 new shipbuilding orders go to Japan. Last year the island nation racked up a balance of trade surplus of $5.3 billion over the United States and $4 billion over the European Common Market.

Not all of it is due to lower labor costs or greater production efficiency. Japan has been accused of "dumping" everything from ball bearings to television sets in other countries at government - subsidized low prices, while excluding foreign competitors from its domestic market.

Speaking of unfair competition, however, the Japanese have some complaints of their own, particularly in the field of air travel.

For example, in 1975, twice as many Japanese flew to the United States as Americans entered Japan, but most of the Americans and half the Japanese flew on U.S. carriers. The reason is that while only Japan Air Lines (JAL) flies to the U.S. from Japan, two major U.S. airlines have landing rights in Japan by virtue of the 1952 Japan- U.S. Civil Air Transport Agreement.

There is also some question, the Japanese suggest, of "dumping" by U.S. airlines by means of shaved fares.

In addition, two other U.S. airlines have regular flights to Okinawa and beyond, two U.S. charter flight corporations serve Japan and a major U.S. cargo carrier also commands points in Japan.

Japan is at another disadvantage with regard to the number of places at which JAL can land in the United States. Such important cities as Washington, D.C., Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Houston are barred to Japanese planes.

Even worse, say the Japanese, are restrictions on their right to fly to South America from points in the U.S. JAL planes may stop to refuel in San Francisco and Los Angeles, but may not pick up any passengers. Since the freedom to load or unload passengers is not recognized, the right to fly beyond is an empty and impractical courtesy.

They also point out that the Civil Air Transport Agreement was signed at a time when Japan was a defeated and occupied nation, and glad to be received back into the international community. Elimination of inequalities in the agreement is now needed "to properly reflect the present equal partnership between the two nations."

The Japanese would seem to have some valid beefs, and there should be no reason why we can't reach a new agreement giving them a fairer share of the air travel market.

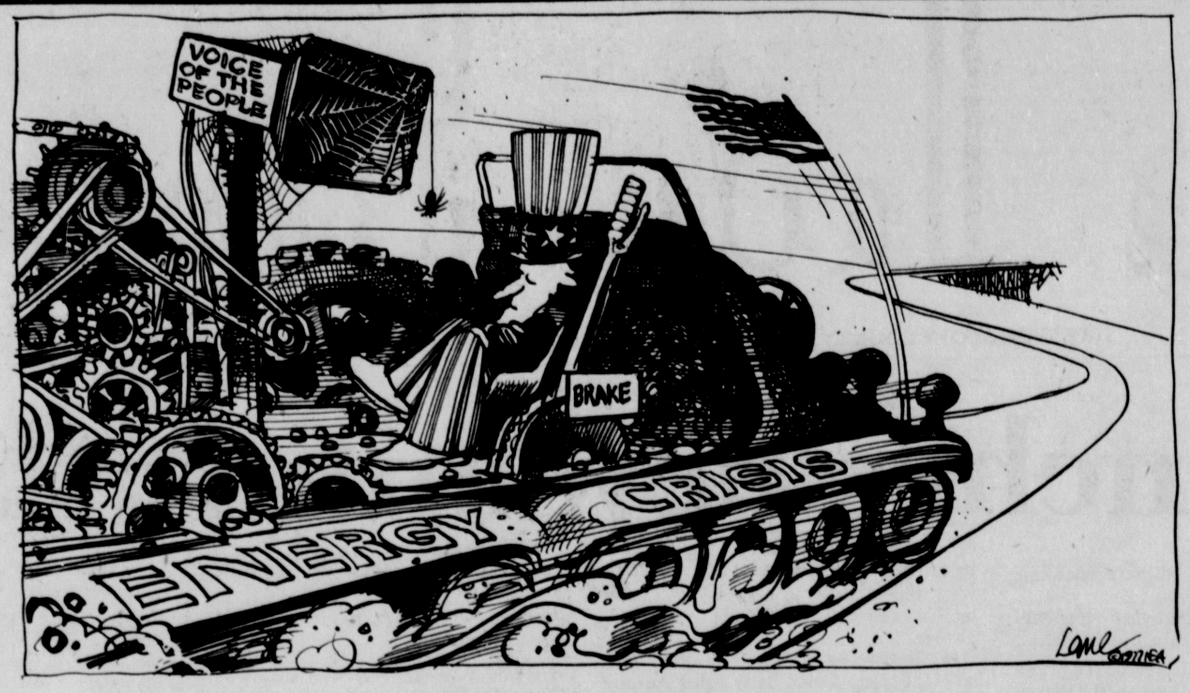

Maybe if they would stop dumping color TVs on us...

NEW YORK AIDED ENOUGH, FOR NOW

From The Miami Herald

Those who expected Jimmy Carter to take New York City off the hook with a fresh shot of federal money are having to accept disappointment. It's not really bad news, however.

Mr. Carter had said during his campaign that he wouldn't let the city go bankrupt; he's no doubt as good as his word. But he has already spoken against a five-year extension of the 2.3-billion-dollar federal loan to New York, which otherwise must be repaid in June 1978.

Major banks who have lent money to the city want the loan extended to ensure the soundness of their outlays. Members of the Senate Banking Committee, though, feel that the city is on target in recovering its financial balance and doesn't need more backup aid.

If New York City gets into deep trouble again, we imagine the President would act quickly and forcefully to help. Meanwhile, he is right to let the city run just a little bit scared and lean. So far, a touch of anxiety has helped, rather than hurt, a municipal administration that once spent lightheartedly.

Retaining An Old Hand

The Carter Administration has, like all new administrations, been sweeping pretty clean among the policy-making jobs in Washington. But it has wisely kept on some old hands, and perhaps never more wisely than in retaining Donald I. Baker as assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division.

Baker is only six months into a program he and others think will make American business more competive and therefore more innovative, more expansive and less apt to overcharge customers.

The Baker program is simple. He is asking the courts to put more businessmen in jail in cases where it has been proven that they entered into illegal agreements setting prices, carving up markets or preventing new businesses from competing.

Baker's argument is quite simple. He says, first, that collusion among businessmen to limit competition requires willfull violation of the law by sophisticated persons who are fully conscious of the fact that they are acting illegally. He argues forcefully that such transgressions deserve to be punished severely.

Second, he argues that jail sentences would deter business from such monopolistic practices. In the vast majority of cases, offenders have been penalized with fines and suspended sentences—which are generally regarded as an acceptable price to pay for profits that are increased by collusion. Fewer than 60 persons have gone to jail for antitrust violations in 15 years.

His case for deterrent value of jail sentences is based on actual statements by executives that they are far more afraid of jail than fines and the reasonable contention that they, as respected members of the community, would be eager to avoid the calumny associated with a prison record.

Baker's policy of asking for stiffer sentences will, of course, have to be implemented by judges at the time of sentencing, and judges have powers of discretion in such matters. But the Carter Administration, simply by retaining Baker, has reinforced the strength of his arguments.—The Boston Globe

Local Committees Could Help Too

President Carter announced last week he would work through the members of the Democratic National Committee in order to keep in closer touch with the people.

That's fine, but those contacts should go one step farther, since there are only two national committee members from Missouri.

By including the chairperson of each county committee the real Grass Roots ideas could be secured. It would be a big job, but could be done by the Questionnaire method so much used by both Congressment and Senators.

It would not only provide a means of getting local ideas to the top at Washington, but also would create a greater interest in national affairs with those committee heads.

Death Penalty In Missouri

From The Kansas City Star

Once again the Missouri Legislature is debating a death penalty bill in Jefferson City. And once again wondrous reasons for legalized killing are being advanced.

One is to the effect that a lifer would not hesitate to kill in prison, for without a death penalty, what would he have to fear? And it has been hinted that prisons are so fearfully overcrowded that a little capital punishment might relieve the pressure. The more familiar arguments on whether the death penalty is or is not a deterrent are heard.

The central question is whether the people of Missouri want to get back in the killing business. There have always been murders in prisons, and the miracle is that there are not more. One of the awful ironies of American justice is the fact that a convict, sentenced to a prescribed punishment behind bars, is in great danger of suffering from much worse punishment at the hands of other inmates. This, of course, is not justice..It is, instead, one of the terrible failings of the system. Sometimes these punishments are inflicted on individuals convicted of nothing. They simply are in jail awaiting trial or arraignment.

But that is another matter. The issue before the Legislature is state-directed death. The truth probably is that some members of the General Assembly, no doubt reflecting considerable public sentiment, discover in themselves a feeling of satisfaction in an eye-for-an-eye retribution. This is understandable. The urge for revenge is human.

But is it an urge that the state can give in to without debasing the very society the law is supposed to protect? Government has alternatives to killing in enforcing law and order. Life imprisonment is one such alternative. Whatever government does, it sets the example.

New Naval Empahsis From The San Francisco Chronicle

His old boss, Adm. Hyuman Rickover, lost out recently to President Carter when the House of Representatives voted to stop construction of giant-sized, nuclear-powered aircraft carriers.

The 2-billion-dollar nuclear carrier is a ship we can ill afford. It is noteworthy that Representative George Mahon, of Texas, long a supporter of a strong defense establishment, said that he approved of President Carter's "moving toward the smaller ships and more ships so we can cover the oceans of this earth."

The Carter Energy Equation From The Springfield (Mo.) Leader-Press

Coal and conservation. Those words are rapidly emerging as the guidons of Jimmy Carter's energy policies.

If the president and James Schlesinger, his chosen energy czar, are able to enforce those commitments, they will have set the nation's course on a sharply different heading.

There is one great disadvantage to the first half of the Carter-Schlesinger equation, coal. To burn dramatically greater amounts of coal is to risk effecting deep and perhaps lasting long-term changes in the climate, unless more and bigger investments are made in clean air technologies. The hard fact is that clean coal will be very expensive coal. The great advantage to coal is that we have staggeringly great (never say "virtually inexhaustible," please) deposits of the stuff.

The compelling logic of a coal commitment, upon which President Carter and Gerald Ford were agreed even during their election contest, means anything but business as usual for the American people.

For homeowners, it will mean more expensive power. For utilities, it will mean hard-nosed mandates from Washington to quit burning oil and gas forthwith. For the nuclear companies, Carter's corollary policy of a reduced commitment to the atom threatens economic hardship. For the big oil companies which, for a decade and more, have been buying coal companies with the enthusiasm shown for alcoholic refreshment by sailors on liberty, the national commitment to coal should be expected to encourage Carter and the Democratic Congress to outlaw such joint ownerships.

As to the second factor of the equation, conservation, it need only be said that the more of that, the better.

P.S. TO THE NEWS

FEDERAL CHILD CARE

By PHYLLIS SCHLAFLY
Copley News Service

Walter Mondale has not yet made it clear whether he will use his new prestige as vice president to push for passage of what used to be called the Brademas-Mondale child-care bill, or whether he will let sleeping dogs lie.

During the last Congress, this bill was buried under an avalanche of opposition mail. Mondale himself said that it "started down in Oklahoma and Texas, then it came north like the hoof-and-mouth disease."

The Brademas-Mondale bill was a proposal to spend nearly $2 billion of the taxpayers' money to set up a new bureau in charge of baby-sitting and child development facilities to be operated by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. A new federal Office of Child and Family Services would supervise a network of federal day-care centers for children.

By no means was the Brademas-Mondale bill limited merely to custodial care. It covered the physical, educational, nutritional, social, recreational, psychological and emotional development of the child, as well as "other such services and activities as the HEW secretrary deems appropriate."

The bill would make child rearing a "partnership" between parents, HEW and other state and local bureaucrats and organizations that claim they are "interested" in your child. The dictionary defines parent as a "father" or a "mother." The Brademas-Mondale bill, however, defined parent as "any person who has primary day-to-day responsibility for any child."

The bill was not designed primarily to help the poor and needy. It clearly stated that the program "shall include children from a range of socioeconomic backgrounds." This would make the taxpayers pay to care for the preschool children of middle-class and even wealthy mothers who want to evade the so-called burden of caring for their babies.

There are moral, social and financial issues involved in the concept of federal child care.

Do we want to transfer the responsibility for the care of preschool children from the family to the federal government? Do taxpayers want to pay the cost of a giant federal baby-sitting service for all mothers regardless of means? Is it a social good to offer financial inducements to promote an exodus of mothers and babies from the home?

There are certain pressure groups that would answer yes to these questions. Certain branches of the teachers' lobby see federal child care as the solution to the the growing problem of empty classrooms and teacher unemployment caused by the severe decline in the birthrate.

Obviously, if our society can be induced to finance the notion that every child should be put in school or a school substitute at age 2 or 3 instead of at age 5 or 6, this would eliminate teacher unemployment.

Anothere force eager to move babies out of the home into government kiddy-care centers, and mothers out of the home and into the job market, is the consortium of vested interests that always works toward moregovernment spending and control. It is obvious that the American people are now paying all the taxes they are willing to pay.

Where, then, can the government spenders find new sources of revenue to expand their staffs and increase their budgets? The 40 million homemakers offer a tempting source of new tax revenues. When they stay in their homes, care for their own babies, and cook their own meals, no money changes hands.

If these homemakers can be induced to leave their homes and take jobs, thereby having to rely on child-care facilities and to purchase other domestic services (such as packaged foods), the tax collector gets his share and bigger government results.

Whether or not Mondale renews his personal efforts, the powerful forces lobbying for government child care will not go away.

Inside Labor

The New Underground: Mysterious infiltrators regularly shutting coal mines vital to American power supply

WASHINGTON — For a few wild minutes the banquet hall of the Hotel Shoreham here was the stage for the theater of the neo-radical absurd. The vast room hadn't been set as a stage that evening of March 31 -- but for a labor banquet. On the speakers' dais were Senate, House and union leaders.

The speeches hadn't begun. Suddenly some 20 violent youths burst through the doors. Lewdly they screamed. Chaucer would have come out a second best. They tried to bowl over diners and tables. Bellowing, they denounced the establishment.

Then came the counterattack as such startled guests of honor as Senate majority leader Robert Byrd, labor prexy George Meany, the man from Hell's Kitchen and Harvard Sen. Pat Moynihan and the big steel union's presidents I. W. Abel and Lloyd McBride watched in amazement. The invaders were rushed out. Arms, legs and teeth flying -- all the while, the so-called neo-radicals hurled scatalogical street-worn shibboleth at the "ruling class."

Despite the blood, twice again the "rad-mils," as some now the direct actionist radical-militants, tried to crash in through the quickly massed security patrols. The youths were but one band of many philosophies -- all Marxist-Leninist sects -- now operating inside American labor and industry.

Some units of the "rad-mil" milieu are more subtle. Some have requested entree to the White House. Some approach top business executives. Some actually tried to invade labor's national headquarters.

And some go underground. Literally. Armed with university degrees -- masters and Ph.D.s as well as bachelors -- and miners' pickaxes, they have seeped into the almost paralytically chaotic United Mine Workers (UMW) as water does into an old coal shaft.

In the industry, the neo-radicals are known as the "stranger pickets." Back in 1974 they were only a handful--mostly from the Chicago-based Revolutionary Union (RU). Some came out of the steel industry. Some from the Postal Service. Some from the West Coast colleges.

Today, authoritative sources disclose, they number some 250. They have a communication network. And in 1976 they succeeded in provoking nationwide strikes costing over 1.3 million man-days.

The "stranger pickets" -- whom the miners treat with the traditional reverence shown any placard wearer or strike-shouting person at the pit head -- did almost as well in 1975. Most of this has been concentrated in the West Virginia fields. But the forays have shut mines right up to the Mississippi.

Whether the wildcats are provoked by the "stranger pickets" or the outlaw stoppages are stirred by the miners' own inability to kick the habit, the cost is huge. Since 1972 some six million man-days of digging have been lost because of wildcatting. Most of these walkouts were as senseless as they were illegal--in defiance of their weak national union headquarters now up for grabs, in defiance of expensive no-strike contracts, the higher costs of which are passed on to the consumers, and in defiance of the federal courts.

And as the mysterious "stranger pickets" grow in cadres and skill, the threat to the gloried "trillions of tons of coal as our fuel of the future" mammoth-izes, as one Jimmy Carter cabinet-level officer said recently.

It's all very easy to talk of substituting coal for oil and nuclear power. But, with the environmentalists balking at the strip mining of even low-sulphur western coal, the "stranger pickets" ever set to goad some 80,000 coaldiggers out of the pits for weeks and the cost of this fossil black fuel racing skyward, the bituminous stuff may be no cure for what ails the economic and energy alchemists.

Because the costly wildcat walkouts wild-fired during 1972-74, the coal operators, many of whom also bargain for the steel industry, agreed to pay a hefty price for industrial peace. This they did in the 1974 pact -- the most expensive coal union contract ever signed in this free world. Instead of industrial peace, they got "industrial anarchy."

Naturally, as the price for labor productivity in the bituminous fields went up, so did the cost of everything from a toy train to a heavy tonnage truck.

And, of course, your electric bills.

For example, to keep the United Mine Workers' members and retirees in solvent health, welfare and pension plans, the coal industry now pays over $720 million a year. This is $2.84 an hour per coal digger. Compare this with the $305 million the truck operators pay annually into the big Chicago-based Teamsters' pension fund. Add perhaps another $75 million paid yearly into the truckdrivers' welfare pool, covering some 350,000 drivers. The miners involved are half that number. Yet the cost is almost twice for the coal operators.

Further, the labor cost per miner is $100-a-day. Yet none of this brought peace. Not from the coaldiggers, not from the hapless union and not from the "stranger pickets" always shouting for the "right to strike."

So the mine owners have told the union that there will be a confrontation. The corporations want peace and productivity for their money. So does the public. The wildcats must end. The "stranger pickets" must go. Union leaders now must stop waving the bloody shirt of the murdered union rebel Yablonski. That ghastly saga is over.

The UMW has had its trauma. Now its leaders must realize this nation can't afford another coalfield civil war – not while the U.S. may inflate itself to death for want of fuel.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Big Business Gets 'Welfare' Also Known as 'Tax Breaks'

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- The nation's great corporations are collecting billions in welfare from the overburdened taxpayers.

Of course, this whopping annual contribution to Big Business is never called welfare, because it is bequeathed in the form of tax benefits. Most major industries simply are exempted from paying their fair share of the taxes. Their unpaid taxes, therefore, must be paid by the rest of the taxpayers.

To the underprivileged citizens who pay their full taxes, there is no difference between giving outright welfare or making up the taxes that the corporations don't pay. The money comes out of the same pockets whether the taxpayers donate it directly or use it to pay corporate taxes.

The corporate giants, according to an unpublished study by Rep. Charles Vanik, D.-Ohio, lower their tax rates through "a menagerie of tax incentives and stimulants."

The statutory corporate tax rate ranges up to 48 per cent. Yet a congressional study of 148 major U.S. companies showed they got away with paying an average of only 21.3 per cent in 1975.

Vanik concentrated his investigation on 10 utilities, with a combined income before taxes of more than $7 billion. Yet they had used their special tax privileges to reduce their federal income taxes to less than 5 per cent. In other words, these multibillion-dollar consortiums paid the same tax rate as a family of four, who scrape by on an adjusted gross income of $8,450.

Vanik concluded from his study that the utilities "consistently have been able to reduce their federal income taxes more than other economic sectors."

In 1975, for example, Congress increased the investment tax credit to 10 per cent. This permits businesses to expand at the expense of the taxpayers. Vanik contended that this lovely loophole permits utilities that "already have been able to reduce taxes to miniscule levels to reduce them further or to eliminate federal tax payments entirely in some cases."

As one example, he cited American Electric Power, which "paid 1975 federal income taxes of only approximately $195,000 on an approximate adjusted income of $254,546,000 -- an effective federal income tax rate of less than .08 per cent."

Which gives us something to think about the next time we read the good news sent to us by the Internal Revenue Service.

Patty's Perils: The disappearance of Patty Hearst's blood-stained bathrobe hurt her chances of acquittal at her bank robbery trial last year. This is the opinion of her court-appointed psychiatrist, Dr. L.J. West, who is now speaking out for the first time.

The young heiress was wearing a blue bathrobe on the night of Feb. 4, 1974, when she was kidnapped from her apartment by members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

She fought her abductors. But her SLA tormentors overpowered her, bound her and stuffed her in a garbage can for the drive to a hideout. She was badly battered, and her wounds bled profusely.

Later, the FBI found the torn, blood-soaked garment, which was identified as Patty's by her mother, Catherine Hearst. But by the time Patty was arrested and tried, the crucial piece of evidence had mysteriously disappeared. The jury never got to see the gruesome evidence of Patty's fight to defend herself.

It was ironic, Dr. West told us, that some government psychiatrists referred to her as the "Queen of the SLA." They suggested that she enjoyed her new role as a revolutionary.

"The so-called Queen," West noted wryly, "was being carried around in a garbage can after her abduction."

Following Patty's arrest, government prosecutors taped Patty's conversations with friends and edited them selectively. "What the jury heard wasn't the whole story," contended the psychiatrist.

"The last thing the jury heard on those tapes was Patty cursing. But many references favorable to Patty's defense had been removed," West told us. "For instance, nowhere in the tapes did the jury hear Patty relate that her parents should disregard all they had heard her say on the infamous SLA tapes, in which she had played the role of the revolutionary 'Tanya.'"

The Hearst family never really believed any of Patty's harsh denunciations on the SLA tapes, West recalled. "They never believed Patty was talking of her own free will. They assumed she was under duress."

Footnote: Dr. West gave the publishing heiress a thorough, 40-hour psychiatric examination. He concluded sadly that "she would never be 19 years old again." But he believes Patty may return to normal health one day. "She would have to be allowed to lead a more conventional life than she is now, though," he cautioned.

Watch on Waste: Asst. Patent Commissioner Richard Shakman isn't letting President Carter's economy-in-government drive interfere with his sumptuous style of living. Shakman has just installed $5,600 worth of unneeded furnishings and changes in his office. He has also billed the taxpayers another $5,600 for a 20-month course at American University. He uses Patent Office personnel, incidentally, to help with his homework. Shakman also told us bluntly that he'll order a Patent Office chauffeur to drive him to and from classes if need be.

— Some 400 students from the Defense Dept.'s school for officers and civilians will embark soon on 16-day junkets around the world. They will visit such faraway places as Africa, Asia, Europe and the Middle East ostensibly to chat with foreign leaders and study world affairs. The bill for the trips is estimated at $778,000.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO (AP) — Trade in farm commodity futures on the Chicago Board of Trade was halted seven minutes after the 9:30 a.m. CST opening today and a spokesman for the exchange said there would be no pit dealings "until further notice."

Trade in grain and soybean complex futures opened at the regular time, but within minutes the interval between bids in the soybean complex pits and the time they were posted on the computerized boards began to lag more than the usual 10 seconds. The exchange then closed down.

Trade was resumed at 10:00 a.m.

There was a one hour delay beyond 9:30 a.m. Thursday because of an accumulation of back shop problems caused by Wednesday's record trade.

Today's news in brief

Antihijack pact expires

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1973 U.S.-Cuban antihijacking agreement expired today, a highly successful diplomatic venture that fell victim to the lingering uneasiness between the two countries.

However, Cuban President Fidel Castro has indicated that Cuba will continue to abide by the terms of the agreement despite the absence of a contractual obligation.

Castro announced last October he was calling off the agreement in retaliation for what he said was a series of CIA-sponsored terrorist acts against Cuba, including the crash of a Cuban jetliner off Barbados.

Simpler tax form promised

WASHINGTON (AH) — President Carter has promised that the government will produce a s mpler, easy-to-handle tax form that will make it possible for most Americans to compute their own returns. About half the nation's taxpayers now seek professional help.

But don't fire your tax preparer just yet.

Administration proposals for overhaul of the income tax code are due by the end of September. Taxpayers who are scurrying to meet today's tax filing deadline may find some comfort in the President's pledge:

" ... I give you my promise that next Sept. 30, after long, detailed, laborious analysis of the horribly complicated income tax laws, we will come out with a simpler system so that 75 or 80 or 85 per cent of all of you in this country can fill out your own income tax returns without anybody helping you, and so that you will feel ... that everybody is paying their fair share."

The promised simplicity may run afoul of other administration goals. The complexity of the current system stems in part from the use of tax laws to promote a variety of national objectives.

These are tax breaks offered as incentives for the purchase of homes and health insurance, for contributions to charity and for other expenditures that the government supports.

Russians blamed for attack

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — President Mobutu Sese Seko claims the Russians and not his air force bombed a Protestant mission hospital and two villages in neighboring Zambia. There was also an unconfirmed report of heavy fighting after a lull of nearly two weeks n the vest-pocket war in southern Zaire.

"The Russians themselves bombarded the Zambian villages to place us in difficulty with our Zambian friends in the hopes of deflecting the attention of world opinion from their responsibility in the affair of Shaba," said Zaire's president in a statement issued Thursday.

There was no comment from the Soviet Union. But a spokesman for the Katangan rebels in Shaba province claimed 50 French pilots were flying the Mirage fighter-bombers Mobutu bought from France.

Earlier in the month-old war Mobutu accused the Soviets, the Cubans and the Marxist regime in Angola of supporting the exiles who crossed into their mineral-rich native province — known as Katanga when Zaire was the Congo — on March 8 from Angola. All three denied the charge.

Original crew feared dead

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Four original crew members of a DC-6 that landed in western Kansas laden with marijuana Monday are feared dead in Colombia, the former owner of the plane and father of one crew member said Thursday.

In a telephone interview from his Barranquilla, Colombia home with the Wichita Eagle, Rafael Visbal said his son was among four crew members, all of whom have been missing since the plane took off from Barranquilla, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. All the crewmen have families in Colombia.

"I and the other pilots here in Barranquilla are afraid that something happened," Visbal said. "There is the possibility that the plane landed somewhere in Colombia and that the crew members were killed."

The plane, which contained seven tons of marijuana, made an emergency landing Monday on U.S. 283, south of Jetmore, Kan. The landing was madeabout a quarter-mile west of an abandoned bomber airstrip that authorities believe was being used as a refueling stop. A fuel truck was found near the airstrip.

Four men were arrested a short time later. Held in lieu of $150,000 bond each on charges of possession of marijuana and possession with intent to sell were Robert Edward Bedford, 29, West Village, Colo.; Robert Franklin Simons Jr., 26, Aspen, Colo.; George William Kersting, 28, Cincinnati, Ohio, and a Colombian national, Juan Miguel Diazgranados Retat, 25.

Marigolds are used as stimulants

By Chris Ann Miller

I do hope y'all had a really good Easter weekend. And that the Bunny left you with sufficient jelly beans to upset all the little tummys running around. Mom got me a chocolate rabbit, nice big yummy one, it melted down to a blob with the sunshine. They aren't making chocolate bunnies like they used to.

Last week was ancient history time for the marigold - we'll come back to the present this time--

In the 19th and 20th centuries, marigolds have been used as a stimulant and diaphoretic. What with the trend to the oriental since the Red Panda came back into the open, some of you might be interested to know that Chinese herbals list the common marigold a remedy for bleeding piles. It's also helpful in the treatment of chronic ulcers and varicose veins.

Today, especially with the spring warmth-- the bees are buzzing and the wasps are building their cute little nests -- some of those friendly little buzzers are going to get overly friendly. When they do -- try rubbing a marigold blossom on the lump. It works -- at least on me!! Helps mosquito lumps, too.

If a fever starts to be a problem -- before it gets out of hand -- try a tisane of freshly gathered blossoms -- it will help you to perspire and to get rid of excess mucus. And while we're on the subject of excess, the juice of the marigold leaf is an old, tried remedy for constipation...

Wander into your kitchen for a moment -- it won't take long for this, folks -- especially with this oh-so-nice- change- from-January- and-February weather. Marigolds can be used mainly in soups and salads - the leaves have a salty taste. As you get more into herbs and herbal teas (which I do hope you are doing) try making marigold tea from the deepest orange colored flowers. With the marigold, a good tid-bit of information for you is that the stronger the color, the stronger the flavor.

If you are drying your own herbs and flowers, use just the blossom of the marigold. Either hang it upside down or lay it on paper. The drying petals have a tendency to hold onto things, so drying them on a screen as you would other herbs and flowers is out. They should not be allowed to touch each other, since this can and will lead to discoloration.

Go crazy planting marigolds in your yard and garden. Around your other plants, they keep away nemotodes, and you don't want to have to go running all over everywhere if some darned buzzer gets you. Throw a small handful of the petals into a salad some evening. Besides, marigolds are pretty — they'll cheerful up the joint.

I'm beginning to woolgather -- guess I need a tonic this spring. You may too -- so keep an eye peeled for next week -- I'll tonic you all up and maybe throw in a little tea or two for your great-aunt Martha's rheumatiz.

Now for the plug of the week -- besides my all time urge for the Pygmys (who are still dying -- a small piece of our world we can never ever replace) I want you all to support the Special Olympics!!

Everyone in the world has some kind of handicap -- it may be on the outside and easily recognized or it may be on the inside and not available for publication. It doesn't really matter where it is -- Everyone needs a chance to be a winner now and then -- the Special Olympics give this chance to thousands of kids who would not have that chance any other way in our society.

Volunteer to cheer those kids on -- you'll do more for yourself in the long run.

Senior Girl Scouts will present song festivals

Senior Scouts from throughout the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council have been giving of their time and talent to present Song Festivals in various communities of the council.

The audience is made up of all levels of Girl Scouts. It is a time of sharing old songs - learning new ones - and making friends. The songs that are taught by these Scouts will be shared with other scouts for years to come.

The Senior Scouts involved in the program under the direction of Miss Debbie Funke, Kennett Cotton Boll Field Adviser, are: Cathy Owens of Dexter, Teresa Martel of Kennett, Mary Ellen Prim of Poplar Bluff, Linda Walls of Kennett, Naomi Goodrich of Fisk, Janet Mansbridge of Fisk, and Marilynn White. Maryanna Funke of Poplar Bluff is also an accompanist.

The next song festival will be in Caruthersville, April 16 at the Presbyterian Church starting at 1:00 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Davis of Dexter, Nancy VanderHyden of Dexter, Jennifer Petty of Dexter, accompanist; Brenda Buys, Kennett Shari

Area leaders will attend workshop

Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. will hold an Institutional Racism Workshop April 18 - 20, at the Lindenwood College in St. Charles, Mo.

Mrs. Ruth Wisdom, Region V, GSUSA Director, states, "Racism in its most subtle, complex and insidious form is Racism which is institutional. The effort of Region V is dedicated to the belief that institutions being human made can be human change."

To combat racism to see how we can change the system – to see what we are doing wrong in the area of race-relations is to provide an atmosphere that is conducive to encouraging minority participation.

The Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council is making an all out effort to increase minority representation at all levels from scouts to leader to board members. It is the belief of the council that Girl Scouting has a lot to offer minority groups and minority groups have alot to offer Girl Scouting.

As a result of a recognization of the need the Council is sending the following representatives to the workshop on Institutional Racism: Mrs. Carter (Sue) Fenton, Neighborhood Chairman from Charleston; Mrs. Bill (Libby) Rhodes, Board Member from Hayti; Mrs. Les (Virginia) Heise, Board Member and Senior Scout Leader from Malden; and Ilena Aslin, of Sikeston, Executive Director of the Council.

COFFEE JELLY

We're re-using this recipe because it calls for leftover coffee — too expensive to throw out.

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1½ cups leftover brewed strong coffee
1-3rd cup sugar
¼ cup coffee liqueur

Sprinkle the gelatin over ¼ cup cold water and let soften. Heat the coffee until extremely hot; add to gelatin with the sugar; stir until gelatin and sugar are dissolved. Stir in the coffee liqueur. Pour into six ½-cup molds or custard cups and chill to set. Unmold and serve with custard sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Dear Ann Landers

Friends repay bill with help

Dear Ann Landers: This is for the wife who was enraged because her husband (in the plumbing and heating business) did an installation job for a friend and didn't get paid.

My husband has been in that business for 25 years and I couldn't count the hours he has put in helping people, in all kinds of weather, without pay. This is what we received in return:

When he had to go to the hospital in December our driveway was plowed out every day.

Any vacation we take is worry-free because someone always offers to check the house, water the plants, feed the dogs and take in the mail and the papers.

The morning of our daughter's wedding my husband discovered his tux didn't fit right. Our neighbor (a fine seamstress) came right over and saved the day.

When we built a garage his friends poured cement and put the roof on. Some of the men were dairy farmers and must have left their own work to help.

I just hope these wonderful friends of ours never send us a bill for their kindness and consideration. We could never pay it. There's not that much money in the world. -- Bread Cast Upon The Waters

Dear Bread: I believe wholeheartedly in your philosophy, although the world is filled with cynics who think we are fools.

There are the "givers" and then there are the "takers." The "takers" don't know what they are missing. I can tell them -- they're missing the best part of living.

Dear Annie Baby: Can you break for just one more letter to the CB griper who signed herself "Mad In Illinois"?

Why didn't any of those moaners who wrote in to clobber "Mad" make it clear that it is very much against the law to transmit over 150 miles with a class D license?

Those ratchet jaws down there in Alligator Alley (Florida) are using illegal kickers (linear amplifiers) to boost their output to skip talk.

The best way to handle the problem is to give a shout to Big Daddy (FCC) -- along with any handles and call letters.

This be Fat Fingers in the Gateway City gone bye bye now. -- St. Louis

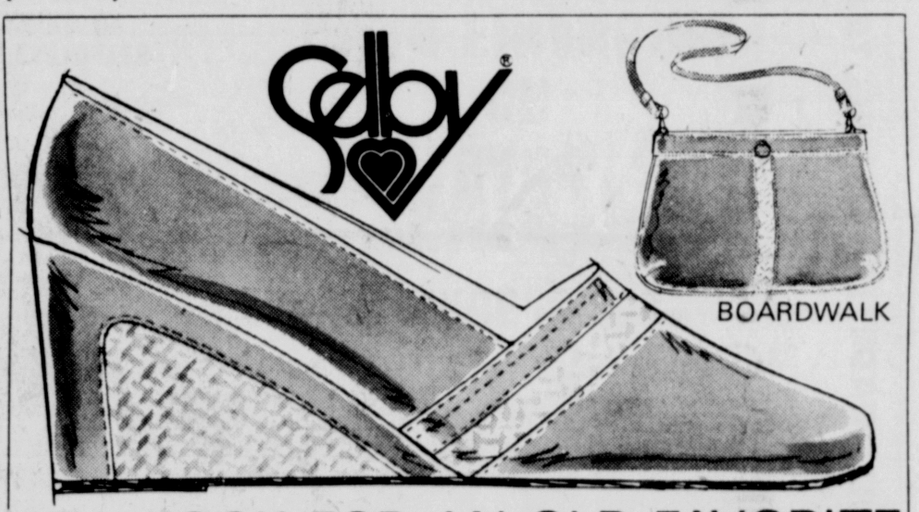

Dear Fat Fingers: This is Annie Baby in the Land o' Lincoln breaking to tell you that one reader did suggest that "Mad" complain to Big Daddy. Please tell the St. Louis Post-Dispatch -- (a really great paper) to stop cutting my column. Ten-four.

Dear Ann Landers: Please clear up a question my girlfriend and I need to have answered. Many people, I'll bet, are wondering about it, too. Question: Is it possible to get VD from kissing someone who has it? For years we have been under the impression that the only way a person can get VD is through sexual intercourse with someone who is infected. Please set us straight. – Unsure In Alpena, Mich.

Dear Unsure: It is indeed possible to ge syphilis if you kiss a person who has an open chancre on his lip, tongue or in his mouth--if you have a cracked lip or a cut on your lip, your tongue or in your mouth.

A surgeon contracted syphilis a few years ago when he was doing an autopsy on a syphilitic cadaver. The doctor accidentally cut his hand through the rubber glove and it became infected. He was amazed when the positive Wasserman turned up. It took some heavy detective work on his part to trace the origin. That case is now medical history.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious--lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers's booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Grimsley's SPORTS WORLD

NEW YORK (AP) — The quick getaway of the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League baseball race this year lends support to the old-fashioned "spit and polish" regimen practiced by rookie manager Vern Rapp.

"We've got a spirit and a united effort that's been missing on this club for years," said veteran catcher Ted Simmons, one of the Cards' chief sparkplugs.

"I don't think ballgames are won by long hair or short hair," added outfielder Bake McBride, "but we must be doing something right. This team is itching to go."

There even was no loud beef from Al Hrabosky, the Cards' ace relief pitcher who was reduced to tears when he was separated from his Fu Manchu mustache by Rapp's "clean chins" code.

"I still don't agree with that order — it's an infringement on individual freedom," Hrabosky said. "But no doubt about it, Rapp has brought this team together. We had a lot of talent. It was just ready to explode."

The Cardinals opened the season by outslugging the Pittsburgh Pirates in three straight and then came to New York for a 2-1 edge that planted them firmly atop the NL East going into Friday's home opener against Pittsburgh at Busch Stadium.

Cardinal fans, spoiled by a rich tradition of players such as Pepper Martin, Dizzy Dean, Ducky Medwick and Stan Musial, should like the bill of fare that Rapp is serving up for them in 1977. It's a interesting team — young pitchers, slashing hitters, speed and daring on the bases.

It's chief asset, however, may be its "all for one and one for all" credo — the trademark of Rapp.

"Individual performances show up in the box scores but the won-lost column is determined by how everybody plays as a team," the manager said before Thursday's game. "More than any other sport, I think baseball is a team game."

Rapp, St. Louis-born, Cardinal-cradled but part of Bob Howsam's Cincinnati system for seven years, established a stern, conservative system shortly after being named as a replacement for Red Schoendienst.

No long hair, beards or mustaches, he insisted. Jackets and ties on road trips, airplanes and public places. Emphasis on image.

"If you're going to be a major leaguer," he said. "You've got to look and act like one."

Some may say that Rapp, who never played a major league game, borrowed his disciplinary technique from Sparky Anderson, who has made it work so advantageously for the world champion Reds. It wouldn't be true. Rapp has his own style, which made him a winning manager at Little Rock, Indianapolis and Denver.

He is a pleasant, soft-spoken man — no Captain Bligh. He rarely raises his voice. He is firm but sympathetic, with a strong feeling for personal dignity and pride. He is a benevolent despot.

"For the last six or seven years, baseball has drifted too much toward individuality — everybody doing his own thing," Rapp says. "I can't swallow that. I am strong on togetherness. If we do things together, we can win together."

Summer is drawing near, and so is another exciting season of Babe Ruth League Baseball.

Several new Babe Ruth officials in the Sikeston area haye been appointed and will work to provide youths in the area with the finest summer baseball program possible.

Fred Lashmet of Sikeston has been appointed as commissioner of the Sikeston Senior Bab Ruth League. Lashmet is co-owner of Mechanical Systems in Sikeston, a sponsor for the Junior Babe Ruth League All-Stars. He succeeds Bob Taylor as commissioner.

State Babe Ruth Commissioner Bob Ralph also appointed Carroll Garner of Sikeston as District Tournament chairman.

Charles Felker of Dexter is the new District Three Babe Ruth Director. Felker, long active in Dexter's fine Babe Ruth program, will take charge of a district that includes 46 teams and seven leagues.

An effort is underway to bring Babe Ruth Baseball to more towns in the area. Anyone interested can call Felker at 624-4676 or 624-5583, and he will be glad to explain the Babe Ruth program and assist in getting the league off the ground.

James "Buck"Foeste of Chaffee will continue to serve as Eastern Area Director in Missouri.

With these dedicated men in our area continuing to take the lead in the Babe Ruth Leagues, it should be another fine summer of baseball.

We're trying to track down some information on a pair of area baseball players -- Steve Coulson of Fisk and Galen McSpadden of Puxico.

McSpadden went to spring training with the San Diego Padres this spring after finishing strong last season in Class AA. Coulson, who played for the Yankees' Double-A club last year, also enjoyed a good year.

We need to know the status of these two ballplayers. Anyone who might have some information can call or write our office. We'd appreciate it.

A St. Louis newspaper, which runs a reader- response column such as our "Forum", put a question out to their readers recently, and we thought we'd have some fun with the same question, too.

The question is simply, "Where will the Cardinals finish in 1977?"

The readers who responded to the St. Louis publication's question were largely pessimistic, but we're curious as to whether the club's fast start will have an effect on the answers from SeMo's Redbird fans.

Write us with your ideas. Tell us where you think the Cardinals will finish in the Eastern Division standings, and why.

The address again is: Forum, 205 S. New Madrid Street, Sikeston, Mo. 63801. All letters must be signed. We will publish as many as possible.

Dial's squeeze gives Oran win

It's a tight squeeze at the top of the Scott-Mississippi Baseball Conference this season, and that's what it took to keep the Oran Eagles on top Thursday afternoon.

"Joey laid down just a beautiful suicide squeeze bunt," said Oran coach Richard Morris, describing the RBI bunt by Joey Dial in the botton of the eighth and gave the Eagles a 3-2 victory over Kelly in a thriller at Oran.

The victory gave the Oran team a 6-1 Scott-Mississippi record and put them a half game ahead of Illmo-Scott City, 5-1, for the moemnt. I-SC was idle Thursday, but the Rams take on East Prairie this afternoon and are expected to pull back into a tie with Oran.

The score stood at 2-2 going into the bottom of the eighth. With one out, Kerry Lasters, who had tripled in a run earlier in the game, ripped his second three-bagger of the afternoon to put the winning run at third. Rick Hamm and Bill Senciboy were both walked intentionally to lad the bases. With pitcher Dial at the plate, Lasters broke for home with Kelly hurler David Robert's windup, and Dial dropped the ball down the third base line to drive in the winning tally and put Oran on top of the S-MC standings.

Dial fanned ten Kelly batthers and walked only two, earning praise from his coach. "He's really coming along great," Morris said about the sophomore, who has a 3-1 pitching record.

New Madrid scored ten times in the final three innings to win a 12-2 contest over Risco by the ten-run rule in six innings. Ralph Palmer went the distance for the Indians to pick up the pitching victory.

Bernie got strong pitching from Randy Walker and Roger Carson as they won a doubleheader from Puxico 10-1 and 3-0. Both games were five-inning contests.

Walker, the big junior southpaw, gave up only a hit to the Indians in the opener. The mules struck for big innings twice, scoring three in the first and four in the fifth and adding single tallies in each of the other three frames.

Another junior, Roger Carson, also surrendered only a single as the Mules blanked the Indians in the nightcap. Single runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings produced the Bernie margin of victory.

'Kiddie Korps' does it again

NEW YORK (AP) — It was Senior Citizens Day at Shea Stadium but the St. Louis Cardinals' Kiddie Korps stole the show.

"St. Louis might be the darkhorses," said New York Manager Joe Frazier after the high-flying, young Cardinals disposed of the Mets 4-1 Thursday and boosted their record to 5-1, all on the road.

After winning three games in Pittsburgh, the Cards were shut out by the Mets' Tom Seaver Tuesday, but bounced back with a pair of victories. The hungry Redbirds are beginning to make believers of preseason experts who consigned them to fourth place in the National League East.

"Pittsburgh and New York are strong enough clubs to make or break you," said 37-year-old left fielder Lou Brock, the club's elder statesman, "and usually they break you more than make you."

Brock is caught up in the club's early-season spirit of success, but it doesn't surprise him.

"I got that feeling the last six weeks of last season," he said. "This club was 80 per cent young, inexperienced players who were just happy to be in the major leagues and were awed by the opposition. But the last six weeks they adopted the attitude that they would stand up and fight and not be denied. What you see now are guys determined to prove they're big league ballplayers."

The young lions include first baseman Keith Hernandez, 23; shortstop Garry Templeton, 22; right fielder Hector Cruz, 24; and rookie relievers John Urrea, 22, and Johnny Sutton, 24. Templeton and Hernandez each drove in a run Thursday while newcomer Tony Scott, who has less than two years of service in the majors, slammed a two-run triple while filling in for center fielder Bake McBride.

Dogs open big weekend

John Holloway won three events and Donald Atkinson and John Waltrip placed first in two more as the Bulldog track team won their first meet of the season, a triangular contest at Jackson with the Indians and Ste. Genevieve.

Holloway, the versatile senior Bulldog, grabbed firsts in the high jump, triple jump and long jump to pace the Bulldog effort.

Atkinson, a sophomore, won both hurdling events, taking first in the 120-highs and also the 180-lows.

Waltrip, a senior distance man, claimed both the mile and two mile.

Morell Baker added to the Bulldog effort by winning the 100-yard dash.

Sikeston amassed 74 points, beating Jackson by 11. Ste. Genevieve had 37.

Sikeston's girls weren't as fortunate, finishing third in a field of the same three schools.

Schneider resigns as SeMo's A.D.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — The athletic director of Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau has asked to be relieved of his administrative duties and to be allowed to return to full-time teaching.

University President Robert Leestamper said Wednesday the resignation request of John Schneider would be forwarded to the university's board of regents.

Newspapers in both Cape Girardeau and St. Louis said Schneider resigned apparently because of an investigation into the organization of the athletic department.

Leestamper said a review board he appointed found that the athletic department had not been charging out-of-state and exchange students out-of-state fees.

However, Leestamper said the fees question was "a gray area" and that "it was not absolutely clear that he (Schneider) was wrong."

He said the practice was not specifically a violation of Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association rules.

Major league attendance set a new high last year with more than 31 million fans paying their way.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, April 15, the 105th day of 1977. There are 260 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1865, President Abraham Lincoln died in a Washington boarding house across the street from Ford's theater, where he had been shot the night before by John Wilkes Booth.

On this date:

In 1638, English settlers arrived at what is now New Haven, Conn.

In 1850, San Francisco was incorporated as a city.

In 1861, President Lincoln called out militia to suppress the Southern Confederacy.

In 1945, President Franklin Roosevelt was buried at the Roosevelt family home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

In 1959, Cuban Premier Fidel Castro arrived in Washington to begin a goodwill tour of the United States.

In 1970, mobs in Amman, Jordan, burned the U.S. Cultural Center and attacked the U.S. Embassy.

Ten years ago: Thousands turned out in New York and San Francisco to demonstrate against the Vietnam War, with draft card burnings, marches and speeches.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon wound up a visit to Canada by signing an agreement for a joint effort to clean up the Great Lakes.

One year ago: The United States and Greece initialed an agreement on military aid and bases.

Today's birthday: The former president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, A. Philip Randolph, is 88 years old.

Thought for today: I envy no man, no, not I, and no man envies me — Charles Mackay, English writer, 1814-1889.

Judy Herring to sing at First Methodist

Judy Herring of Richmond, Va., a Charleston native and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Nunnelee Jr., 1001 N. Ranney St., will present a vocal concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in First United Methodist Church, Highway 61 North.

A noted teacher, songwriter and recording artist, Mrs. Herring received notification here this week that her album, "Morning Star", has climbed to No. 19 in the National Top 25 Gospel Music Albums rating released by Christian Broadcast Network in Portsmouth, Va.

Mrs. Herring is a graduate of Charleston High School and Oklahoma Baptist University at Shawnee, Okla., where she majored in voice and minored in piano. While living in Charleston, she studied eight years under the late Katherine Boone, a world-renowned voice teacher. At Oklahoma Baptist, she was soloist withthe schools' internationally known Bison Glee Club for four years.

She also has studied at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau, College of Virginia in Richmond and Spurgeon College at London, England.

The wife of Walter Herring, a Richmond building contractor, and mother of a 4-year-old daughter, Melody Ann, Mrs. Herring teaches at Warwick Christian Day School and is choir director at Poplar Springs Baptist Church in Richmond.

Tax exemption for Moon church refused

NEW YORK (AP) — The city tax commission today rejected an application by the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church to exempt three properties worth more than $2.6 million from real estate taxes.

The ruling, adopted by a 4-3 vote, held that the church did not meet the requirement that the property be used exclusively for religious purposes.

"Although Moon's church does in certain aspects bespeak of a religious association," the majority said, it is "so threaded with political motives and activities" that the application was denied.

The commission took the formal vote during a public meeting that lasted just seven minutes before a sparse audience.

"We're very disappointed that the commission has made what's obviously a political decision," said Dan Holdgreiwe, director of public affairs for the church.

He said the decision would be appealed, and he expressed confidence the commission ruling would be reversed.

BSU choir to present concert

The Baptist Student Union choir from Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau will present a concert at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at First Christian Church, 1006 N. Main St., the Rev. Paul Walker, pastor, has announced.

The choir is composed of approximately 35 students from various denominational backgrounds. The director is Dr. Robert Cox, a professor at the university.

Throughout the year the choir performs at various churches in the area. Its concerts include contemporary gospel slections as well as old-time favorites.

Weekend revival set at Canalou

CANALOU--The Canalou Baptist Church will host weekend revival services beginning tonight and ending Sunday, according to the Rev. Don Slatton, pastor.

The evangelist will be the Rev. Glenn Bohannon of St. Charles, a former pastor of the Morehouse Baptist Church.

In addition to the revival services at 7:30 each evening, dinner at the church and a 2 p.m. singing program featuring The Laymen Quartet from Malden are scheduled Sunday.

Time change is announced

DIEHLSTADT--A time change in the Sunday evening service has been announced by the Diehlstadt General Baptist Church. The new starting time is 6:30 p.m., one hour earlier than previously.

Other services at the church include Sunday School, 10 a.m.; morning worship service, 11 o'clock and Wednesday evening, 7:30.

Court orders couple to pay synagogue dues

MIAMI (AP) — Despite a couple's plea that people shouldn't have to pay to pray, their synagogue filed suit and now a judge has ordered Nina and Richard Kaufman to pay $90 in back dues.

"Religion's on trial here," Mrs. Kaufman told the court Tuesday. "You're blackmailed. You can't enter the temple to praise God. I wasn't allowed to go in the synagogue during the High Holy Days unless I made that payment."

But Sheldon Mills, executive director of Temple Beth David, said the suit for 1974-75 membership dues involved a contractual obligation, not religion.

"Judaism is not a business," he said. But "where it is housed is."

Mills said the temple has sued 20 other families for nonpayment of pledged dues, but most have settled out of court. He said $6,000 to $10,000 of the temple's $600,000 annual budget was involved.

The Kaufmans, both real estate agents, said they told temple officials they couldn't meet their $180 dues assessment because of hard times but paid $30 and intended to pay the rest later. They joined Beth David in 1974.

Circuit Judge Edward Swanko ruled that the Kaufmans would have to pay, but he cut the fee to $90, partly because the couple had made a large donation of toys to the synagogue.

"Temple must exist," Swanko said. "We must have religion. The only way it can sustain itself is to depend on the membership for support."

"I've received phone calls and about a dozen letters expressing feelings pro and con," Mills said of the suits. "A couple of synagogues asked us to keep them posted on the status of the case."

He said mail, which has come from as far away as Canada, is running about 50-50.

"I think it's normal for a temple or church to run a deficit. But when somebody makes a pledge of a certain amount, we count on that to pay teacher's salaries and to run the building."

"This gives them the go-ahead," Mrs. Kaufman said. "It sets a precedent allowing churches to use the courts to collect pledges from their congregations."

She added: "They're going to have to come and get me to make me pay."

Youth movement founder wins religious award

NEW YORK (AP) — She was a young Roman Catholic girl, bewildered by the devastation of World War II in her home town of Trent, Italy. She and her friends found their plans and dreams shattered. Everything seemed to say, "All is vanity." Was there no indestructible ideal? They could conceive only of one: God.

"We decided that He must become everything in our lives," she says.

That conclusion by Chiara Lubich and her young friends in 1943 marked the beginning of an unusual movement that has spread quietly, in unplanned, spontaneous ways, around the world and for which she has been named to receive the 1977 Templeton prize of $80,000 for progress in religion.

It is to be awarded April 6 in London, England.

"In all honesty, I must say that I never had the idea of starting or founding a movement," says Miss Lubich, now 57. "Nothing was further from my thoughts." She says it simply happened by its own momentum, apparently by God's initiative.

The movement, as uncharted, diverse and continuously evolving as its unfixed origins, is called the Focolare Movement, its name taken from the Italian word meaning "hearth," symbolizing the unified, sharing community as the crux of Christianity.

Singing program slated Sunday

A gospel singing program will be presented at 2 p.m. Sunday in Temple of Faith General Baptist Church, 306 Smith St. The Soulwinners Quartet from St. Louis will be featured along with local talent.

Guests for youth meeting

The Rev. Clyde Spurgin, pastor of First Baptist Church in Green Forest, Ark., will be guest speaker for the Charleston Baptist Association Youth for Christ meeting at 7:30 p.m. April 23 in Elm Street Baptist Church at Charleston. The Rev. Mr. Spurgin, who will be accompanied by his "dummy", Archie, has been using the ventriloquism ministry about seven years.

The POWER of FAITH
By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE
No. 287. A Prayer of Triumph

Although a considerable portion of the prophecy of Habakkuk chronicled the corruption and infidelity of the people, he was firmly aware of God's power and sovereignty: "But the Lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before him." (Habakkuk 2:20)

"O Lord, I have heard thy speech, and was afraid: O Lord, revive thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known; in wrath remember mercy. God came from Teman, and the Holy One from mount Paran. Selah. His glory covered the heavens, and the earth was full of his praise." (Habakkuk 3:2-3)

The prophet concluded his lyrical prayer in a triumphant manner. "Yet I will rejoice in the Lord, I will joy in the God of my salvation. The Lord God is my strength, and he will make my feet like hinds' feet, and he will make me to walk upon mine high places." (Habakkuk 3:18-19)

Cowgur suggested this morning.

Both Gaines was reappointed fire chief and Cowgur as assistant chief.

Lancaster and newly elected alderman Bill Harris were appointed to the committee to oversee street, police and fire department, positions held by former councilmen Jim Hall and Cowgur, who were also members of the fire department.

Other appointments made by Bresee Thursday night were: Jerry Johnson, police chief, a position he presently holds, and McRoy and Harris, who work with the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission at Malden.

Harris had found out early about the problem of being a councilmann. "I've had two complaints already about gardens and dogs," he said.

Police Judge Howard Stevens discussed dog control ordinances on the books and suggested that now they are in old minute books, hard to find and should be compiled.

He suggested hiring some high school secretarial students to go through the old minutes — going back to the last century — and compiling the ordinances.

The idea was greeted with enthusiasm by the new board, but no action was taken Thursday night.

City insurance was discussed with Frank Sifford, who said the rates have increased $1,700 this year to a total of $5,003. Lancaster asked Sifford to look into a health insurance program for city employes which Sifford agreed to do.

Hearing set Monday on Scott City trash

SCOTT CITY — The new City Council was sworn in here Monday night, following a brief meeting of the old council at which Mayor James Cauble presided for the last time.

New mayor is Alvie Modglin, and new council members are Charlie J. Bertrand, Ward Two; Joe Hanschen, Ward Four, and John Holdcroft, incumbent councilman from Ward One. Gwayne "Sonny" Glass, new council member representing Ward Three, was not present.

City Attorney Tom Arnold told the council an annexation trial to bring a portion of land north of here into the city has been set for June 17.

Bids for new street signs will be taken until noon May 2. In 1975, the city was informed of grant funds available for street signs, but no action was taken. About $5,000 of the federal grant money is still available to the city for the project.

A public hearing will be held at 7:30 Monday night in the multi-purpose room of the Illmo-Scott City School to discuss city trash collection. A trash hauling contract with Orley Jackson will expire July 31, when his license to operate the service becomes invalid.

City officers reappointed to their posts were: Ralph Hayes, police chief; Leslie Crump, fire chief; Donna Spies, city clerk; Tom Arnold, city attorney, and David Eftink, city treasurer.
